the uk government of tony blair is committed to fostering a european dimension of planning practice significant developments in relation to planning within europe are occurring the creation of the european spatial development perspective the reform of the structural funds and the implementation of programmes to foster trans national co operation between governments will all impact on uk government and on planning system in particular even within the uk devolution and regionalisation will bring new pressures for overall co ordination on the issue of european spatial planning issues concerning the revisions of the structural funds in 2000 and 2006 and funding opportunities for local authorities are closely connected with the theme of this book more importantly it is expected that the link between funding and spatial policy within british planning will become more clearly defined during this period the european dimension of british planning as a consequence may grow significantly over the next few years the authors tackle four key issues in their discussion of this topic british political attitudes to europeanisation issues the changing relationships between different arms of the state the often complex interdependencies between tiers of governance the rapidly changing definition of british urban and regional planning wave energy is reaching a critical stage following over three decades of intensive research and development the first few full scale prototypes have been tested at sea and the first pre commercial orders were placed the first offshore wave farm is to be installed in the near future and it is likely that similar schemes will shortly follow such projects will in the medium term provide a comparable output to the conventional wind farms allowing an alternative approach when trying to overcome the technological challenge of finding alternative renewable energy sources it will also fulfil one of the oldest desires of civilization to harness the power of ocean waves this book compiles a number of contributions prepared with the aim of providing the reader with an updated and global view on ocean wave energy conversion given the topics covered and the link between of all them it can be considered one of the first textbooks or handbooks related to this field the authors are recognised individuals within the wave energy community with different backgrounds and their contributions try to give an overall perspective of the state of the art of different technologies the book does not intend to point to a specific technology the market will be responsible for that
